The Berlin Brandenburg Airport Region – the fast growing economic region in the heart of Europe

The German states of Berlin and Brandenburg together constitute one of the most dynamic economic areas in Europe. At the same time, it is very lively, with the pulsating metropolis of Berlin at its centre, surrounded by Brandenburg, a hotspot for innovative growth. Strong clusters and industries shape its profile. About six million people from more than 190 nations live and work here in the heart of Europe.

Trans-European transport routes bring Western and Eastern Europe together here in the capital region. Berlin Brandenburg Airport (BER) „Willy Brandt“ will also become a European air traffic hub. This will benefit companies in a wide variety of industries that have settled in the growing German capital region. Maybe you will join them soon!

Investing in the Airport Region Berlin Brandenburg

Airport City

Benefit from a dynamic economic environment

Location benefits

Political centre

As the seat of Germany’s federal government, the capital region offers you short distances to political decision-makers, integration into first-class networks, and direct contact to leading associations and international institutions.

Highly qualified specialists

Berlin-Brandenburg’s labour market has the largest share of highly trained skilled workers in Germany. The region is a magnet for talent from all over the world and has the highest density of university graduates. Almost two million people in the region speak at least two languages.

Business meets science

Looking for the right scientific expertise for your project? The capital region is home to dozens of first-class university and non-university research institutes. Research institutions and technology-oriented companies work hand in hand here.

Attractive commercial locations in the Airport Region Berlin Brandenburg

Here you will quickly find the right location for your company, whether directly at the new Berlin Brandenburg Airport (BER), in central Berlin, or in one of Brandenburg’s central industrial parks and freight service centres.

Location benefits

Best connections

The excellent infrastructure of air and waterways, railways and roads creates fast connections to national and international markets. The region is strategically located and connected to all European and Asian growth markets.

Powerful telecommunication structure

Berlin-Brandenburg has the largest and most modern digital communication network in Germany and the most extensive fibre optic network in Europe. It is no coincidence that many large telecommunications and internet service providers have their headquarters here.

Unique quality of life

City living paired with almost untouched nature and a multitude of cultural offerings creates a quality of life in the capital region of Berlin Brandenburg second to none.
